He then called me a white piece of trash and said he wasn't accepting anything I explained to him that I was going to leave the documents with him and if he would not take them I would be posting them on the front door he then went in the house with his wife and close the door I went to my car to get the tape as I got back to the door he open the door cussing me out and then just I dropped the papers at his feet and told him he was legally served. I returned to my vehicle I took a photo of the back of his vehicle for the tag and a couple photos of the property. He then came to the back of my car and took a picture of my tag.
